

Per Capita Funding Policy

Per Capita accepts funding on the basis that no contribution shall confer on the donor any right of ownership or editorial control over Per Capita's research or publications.

In order to ensure its ongoing independence, Per Capita has established diverse sources of funding, including individual supporters who donate in various amounts, philanthropic funding, support from unions and corporations, and sponsorship in cash and in kind from organisations and individuals.

Fundraising events, including public symposia and private events, provide an additional income stream.

Per Capita does not charge for membership but does occasionally appeal to members to support specific projects and activities via direct donation.

Per Capita is endorsed as a Deductible Gift Recipient and an Approved Research Institute under subdivision 30-BA of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997.

Donations

Per Capita accepts untied donations from individuals and organisations whose public positions and behaviour align with Per Capita's values.

Per Capita accepts tied donations to support specific work, including particular research programs, issues papers, policy papers, and social innovation projects.

Donors will be acknowledged in publications that they have directly supported.

Donors may be consulted on the development of research or social innovation projects, and may be given the opportunity to provide feedback on draft publications, but final editorial control of all Per Capita's publications will remain with Per Capita.

Donors are not able to exercise a veto over any Per Capita publication.

Per Capita does not accept tied donations with the sole intention of lobbying on behalf of a third party or policy position not developed through Per Capita's research and policy development work.

Sponsorship

Per Capita accepts sponsorship for events, outreach activities including the Young Writers' Prize, fellowships, and internships. Naming rights are not offered to sponsors.

Sponsors cannot dictate the content of speeches or papers presented at events they have supported, but may be invited to participate as speakers.

Commissioned work

Per Capita accepts commissioned work, in research, policy development and advice and public or media appearances, providing that work aligns with Per Capita's research policy and values.

Any intellectual property generated through commissioned work is retained by Per Capita, and Per Capita retains the right to republish commissioned work on its website.

Commissioning bodies or individuals will be consulted on the development of research or policy development, but complete editorial control over any resulting publications remains with Per Capita.

Advertising

Per Capita does not accept advertising in its publications or on its website.

Editorial independence

No financial support of Per Capita shall confer on the supporter the power to approve, influence or veto any Per Capita research or publication.

Funding Transparency

All donations in excess of $100 per annum will be publicly acknowledged on Per Capita's website, with the exception of individual donors who wish to remain anonymous for reasons of privacy.

All sponsorships will be acknowledged in the relevant publication or at the sponsored event.

All commissioned work will include acknowledgement of the commissioning body or individual in the relevant publication or public appearance.
